SUCCESS-POWER

Worry Won't Win!

Crossing bridges before we get to them is the most tiring form of exercise that has ever been invented. It makes old folks out of young ones.

Hoard your vitality. Save it until you need it. The person who worries every day has no reserve nervous force to fall back on in a crisis.

Worry is the sworn enemy of ambition, application and service. It never built anything in the world-but it has destroyed more than any other force in human life.

If you want the true rewards of life-strength, friendship and achievement—stop worrying today!
